Summary

This report provides a reverse chronology of recent events involving India and India-U.S. relations. Sources include, but are not limited to, the U.S. Department of State, New York Times, Washington Post, Hindu (Madras), Hindustan Times (Delhi), Indian Express (Bombay), and major newswires. For a substantive review, see CRS Issue Brief IB93097, India-U.S. Relations. This report will be updated regularly.

07/13/05 — H.Res. 353, expressing U.S. support for India-Pakistan cooperation on the construction of natural gas pipelines, was introduced in the House. On the same day, talks between Indian and Pakistani officials ended with a “serious commitment” to begin work on a $4-4.5 billion pipeline that would deliver Iranian gas through Pakistan to India. Also, India’s foreign secretary said that the continued existence of “the infrastructure of terrorism” on Pakistani soil and the continued infiltration of Islamic militants into Indian Kashmir could hamper the bilateral peace process.

07/12/05 — The United States rejected a resolution by India, Brazil, Germany, and Japan seeking to expand membership in the U.N. Security Council and urged member states against voting on any changes. On the same day, External Affairs Minister Singh said he had provided “photographic evidence” to Pakistan’s prime minister that terrorist camps exist on Pakistani territory. Pakistan rejected the claims.

07/11/05 — Ten people, including seven suspected Islamic militants, were killed in separatist-related violence in Kashmir.

07/10/05 — Suspected separatist militants bombed an army convoy in the northeastern Manipur state, killing two soldiers and critically injuring six others.

07/09/05 — Prime Minister Singh said President Bush had indicated to him that the United States would be willing to help India with its nuclear energy needs. On the same day, four suspected Maoist rebels were killed by police in the southern Andhra Pradesh state. Also, three communist politicians and a policeman were killed by suspected Maoist rebels in the eastern West.
Bengal state. Finally, tribesmen in the northeastern Manipur state set more than one dozen government buildings on fire while protesting the shooting of a protestor by police.

07/08/05 — Four Indian soldiers and at least four suspected militants were killed in gunbattles near the Kashmiri LOC.

07/07/05 — Ten people, including seven suspected militants, were killed in separatist-related violence in Kashmir. On the same day, suspected Maoist rebels killed five people in the eastern Orissa state. Also, India’s defense minister turned down a U.S. suggestion that India post military liaison officers at the U.S. Central and Pacific Commands. Finally, Prime Minister Singh said that repeated terrorist attacks such as the one in Ayodhya have the potential to disrupt the India-Pakistan peace process.

07/06/05 — Prime Minister Singh said he was not going to the United States with a “begging bowl” and had no plans to “negotiate any deals” in Washington. On the same day, the Allahabad High Court set aside a September 2003 ruling and ordered that BJP President and Opposition Leader Lal Advani be tried on conspiracy charges related to the 1992 destruction of the Babri mosque in Ayodhya and ensuing riots.

07/05/05 — Six militants, including a suicide bomber, were killed in the midst of an unsuccessful attack on the site of a controversial temple that is claimed by both Hindus and Muslims in the Uttar Pradesh city of Ayodhya. Ensuing protests by Hindu activists led to thousands of arrests. On the same day, India and Pakistan renewed their commitment to move forward with the bilateral peace process by opening new transportation and trade links. Also, India resumed delivery of non-lethal military aid to the government of Nepal after a five-month hiatus spurred by the Nepali king’s assumption of emergency powers. Finally, the Indian defense minister stated that India had no intention of accepting a missile shield “from anyone.”

07/02/05 — Nine people, including six suspected militants, were killed in separatist-related violence in Kashmir.

07/01/05 — Four Maoist rebels were killed in a gunbattle with police in the southern Andhra Pradesh state.

06/30/05 — A meeting of the India-U.S. Joint Working Group on Space concluded in Bangalore, where the two countries discussed ways to expand bilateral civilian space cooperation.

06/29/05 — Talks between Indian and Pakistani officials seeking to resolve a water dispute over the Wullar Barrage/Tubal navigation project ended in deadlock. On the same day, India and Singapore signed a Comprehensive Economic Cooperation Agreement that will include a major reduction of Indian tariffs on Singaporean goods.

06/28/05 — The United States and India signed a ten-year defense framework agreement that refers to a “new era” for bilateral relations, calls for collaboration in multilateral operations, expanded two-way defense trade, increasing opportunities for technology transfers and co-production, expanded collaboration related to missile defense, and establishment of a bilateral Defense Procurement and Production Group. Pakistan later expressed concern that the pact could lead to “induction of advanced weapons systems into the region” and “destabilize strategic balance” there. India’s Leftist parties and some Indian defense analysts were critical of the pact, in part on the grounds that it could erode Indian sovereignty and sought to draw India into an anti-China alliance.

06/27/05 — While visiting Washington, Indian Defense Minister Mukherjee said India-U.S. relations now “see an objective convergence on many issues” and he called for an end to “anachronistic” restrictions on India’s access to civilian nuclear and other dual-use technologies while requesting a “long-term commitment” in U.S.-India arms sales arrangements. He also denied that the India-Pakistan peace process was “entrenched” and claimed that the “infrastructure for terrorism in Pakistan and Pakistani-controlled territory remains.” On the same day, nine people, including five suspected militants, were killed in separatist-related violence in Kashmir.

06/26/05 — An Indian policeman was killed and six more injured in a gunbattle with Maoist rebels in Bihar near the India-Nepal border.

06/24/05 — While visiting New Delhi, Under Secretary of State Burns said, “There is no question that developing a strategic partnership between the United States and India is one of the highest priorities for our President and for [our] Secretary of State.” He declined to endorse India’s bid for a permanent seat on the U.N. Security Council while noting that India meets the U.S.-stated criteria for such a seat. On the same day, nine Indian soldiers were killed and another 15 wounded by a bomb detonated by Kashmiri separatists in Srinagar.

06/20/05 — At least four suspected separatist militants and one Indian soldier were killed in gunbattles in the northeastern Assam state. A bomb also exploded at the state capitol, but no injuries were reported.

06/19/05 — Violent clashes between police and political protestors in Calcutta left some 70 people injured.

06/18/05 — India and Pakistan reportedly decided to postpone talks on nuclear confidence-building measures until they are able to resolve differences over a proposed missile test pre-notification pact.

06/17/05 — Six suspected separatist militants were reported killed by Indian army troops as they tried to cross the LOC into Indian Kashmir.

06/16/05 — Assistant Secretary of State for Arms Control Rademaker reportedly said that “it would be a mistake to proceed with this [Iran-Pakistan-India gas] pipeline” as it would generate revenue that Iran would use “for funding its weapons of mass destruction program and for supporting terrorist activities.” New Delhi later rejected such concerns. On the same day, former Prime Minister Vajpayee wrote a letter to Prime Minister Singh saying the India-Pakistan peace initiative had become “Kashmir-centric” and criticizing the Pakistani president for reneging on promises to end violence in the region.

06/15/05 — H.Res. 321, expressing the sense of the House that the United States should support membership expansion of the U.N. Security Council to include India and several other countries, was introduced in the House. On the same day, a leading Kashmiri separatist and a former Pakistani army chief made separate accusations that Pakistani Information Minister Rashid operated a training camp for Kashmiri separatist militants during the 1980s. New Delhi later said Rashid would not be allowed to travel across the Kashmiri LOC due to the allegations. Rashid said the move would “set back” the peace process. Also, London-based Amnesty International released a report claiming that Indian military assistance to Nepal has contributed to “grave human rights violations” there.

06/14/05 — During a House International Relations Committee hearing on the United States and South Asia, Assistant Secretary of State for South Asia Christina Rocca said, “With India, this is a watershed year in U.S.-India relations. We’re accelerating and transforming this relationship, which moved briskly over the past four years, We’re now ready to take it to the next level.” Several Members in attendance spoke against a U.S. policy of selling combat aircraft to South Asian countries. One expert witness called for completing the “transformation of U.S.-Indian relations as rapidly as possible in order to permanently entrench India in the ranks of our friends and allies,” while another encouraged attention to India’s still relatively closed economy and its “anti-American voting record in the United Nations.”

06/13/05 — A bomb exploded near a school in Indian Kashmir, killing 14 people and injuring at least 100 more. On the same day, India and Iran finalized a $22 billion deal for Tehran to deliver five million tons of natural gas to India annually for 25 years beginning in 2009.

06/12/05 — Prime Minister Singh said the time had come to make the Siachen Glacier a “peace mountain.” Islamabad responded that it hopes “India would unconditionally withdraw its aggression on the basis of past agreements.”

06/11/05 — Prime Minister Singh said that his government will begin negotiations with Pakistan on the possibility of opening a second road link across the Kashmiri LOC.

06/09/05 — During a visit to Pakistan, moderate Kashmiri separatist leader Mirwaiz Umer Farooq urged interested parties to “move beyond” U.N. resolutions that call for a plebiscite in the disputed region. Finally, two factions of the Kashmiri separatist Jammu and Kashmir Liberation Front announced a decision to reunite.

06/07/05 — Indian opposition leader and former Deputy PM Lal Advani resigned his position as BJP president after coming under fierce criticism for recent comments he made in Pakistan where he called Pakistani founding father Mohammed Ali Jinnah a “secular” leader. Leading Hindu nationalists had called Advani a “traitor” and a “grave liability” to the BJP. Two days later, Advani withdrew his resignation after it was rejected by the BJP leadership. On the same day, Indian and Pakistani officials discussing energy cooperation agreed that “transnational gas pipeline projects should be given top priority” and began talks on a proposed gas pipeline from Iran to India. India’s oil minister suggested that construction of a pipeline from Iran to India could begin in three years or less.

06/06/05 — Sixteen people, including four civilians and 11 suspected separatist militants, were killed over a two-day period in gunbattles in Indian Kashmir. On the same day, the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute said that India imported $8.5 billion worth of weapons systems from 2000 to 2004, placing it second only to China.

06/04/05 — President Bush invited Prime Minister Singh to meet with him at the White House on July 18. On the same day, Singh called it “imperative” that India “embark on a major expansion of nuclear energy,” in part through international collaboration. He also said, “Artificial barriers and [nuclear] technology denial regimes are an anachronism in the age of globalization and must be progressively dismantled.”

06/03/05 — The U.S. State Department’s annual Trafficking in Persons Report again placed India on its “Tier 2 Watch List” for its “inability to show evidence of increased efforts to address trafficking in persons.” On the same day, a local politician was shot and killed by suspected separatist militants in Indian Kashmir.

06/02/05 — Leaders of the moderate faction of the Hurriyat Conference of Kashmiri separatist groups began an unprecedented visit to Pakistan. On the same day, talks between Indian and Pakistani officials seeking to resolve a water dispute over India’s Kishanganga dam project ended in deadlock. 05/31/05 — The inaugural meeting of the U.S.-India Energy Dialogue was held in Washington. On the same day, Indian opposition leader and former Deputy PM Lal Advani met with top Pakistani officials in Islamabad where he declared that there was “broad consensus” on the peace process in India. Also, India’s defense minister inaugurated India’s largest naval base at the southwestern city of Karwar on the Arabian Sea.

05/30/05 — Prime Minister Singh said, “Not enough has been done [by Pakistan] to dismantle the infrastructure of terrorism, which is still intact.”

05/29/05 — Talks between Indian and Pakistani officials seeking to resolve a territorial dispute over the Sir Creek ended in deadlock.

05/28/05 — At least 33 people were injured in two separate explosions in Indian Kashmir.

05/27/05 — Talks between Indian and Pakistani officials seeking to resolve a militarized dispute over the Siachen Glacier ended in deadlock.

05/26/05 — New York-based Human Rights Watch lauded the Indian government’s overall response to the December 2004 tsunami, but found that the government recovery efforts did not adequately serve the needs of vulnerable groups such as women, children, and Dalits (“untouchables”).

05/25/05 — London-based Amnesty International’s annual report claimed that during 2004 perpetrators of human rights violations in India “continued to enjoy impunity in many cases.”

05/23/05 — The Islamabad government invited the leadership of the Hurriyat Conference of Kashmiri separatist groups to visit Pakistan in June. Leaders of the moderate Hurriyat faction later accepted the invitation. On the same day, China’s top military official visited New Delhi to discuss increased defense ties between Indian and China. Also, a U.S. State Department official’s statement to the 2005 Review Conference of the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty included setting a goal that Israel, India, and Pakistan eventually join the Treaty as non-nuclear weapons states.

05/22/05 — One person was killed and 49 more injured by bomb explosions at two Delhi movie theaters that were showing a controversial film opposed by some Sikh groups. Police later arrested three suspects, including two members of a Sikh militant group.
