Summary

This report provides a reverse chronology of recent events involving Pakistan and Pakistan-U.S. relations. Sources include, but are not limited to, the U.S. Department of State, New York Times, Washington Post, Dawn (Karachi), Daily Times (Lahore), News International (Karachi), and major newswires. For a substantive review, see CRS Issue Brief IB94041, Pakistan-U.S. Relations. This report will be updated regularly.

06/21/05 — President Bush telephoned President Musharraf to discuss tensions between Pakistan and Afghanistan after Afghan President Karzai asked Musharraf to halt the infiltration of insurgents across the Afghan-Pakistan border. Some senior Afghan leaders have said top Taliban leaders are in Pakistan. On the same day, the United States and Pakistan began a week-long joint naval exercise in the Arabia Sea. Also, India’s prime minister accused Pakistan of violating a bilateral agreement by allowing a groups of Kashmiri separatist leaders to travel to Islamabad. Pakistan later denied any violation. Finally, a State Department spokesman confirmed that Pakistani officials had taken away the passport of gang rape victim Mukhtaran Mai, but insisted that Pakistani officials will allow Mai to travel abroad if she so desired.

06/20/05 — Afghan authorities reported arresting three Pakistani nationals minutes before they planned to kill Afghan President Karzai in Kabul.

06/19/05 — Director of Central Intelligence Goss told an interviewer that he had “an excellent idea of where [Osama bin Laden] is” while suggesting that “dealing with sanctuaries in sovereign states” presented a problem.

06/18/05 — Muslim clerics and “thousands” of Taliban in South Waziristan reportedly marked the first anniversary of militant leader Nek Mohammed’s death by vowing to continue their jihad against America.

06/17/05 — President Musharraf reportedly said he had imposed travel restrictions on gang rape victim Mukhtaran Mai to protect Pakistan’s image from Western nongovernmental organizations which are “as bad as the Islamic extremists.” On the same day, A.Q. Khan, the Pakistani metallurgist implicated in running a global proliferation network, was diagnosed in stable condition after suffering a heart problem.

06/16/05 — Outgoing U.S. Ambassador to Afghanistan Khalilzad said that Osama bin Laden and Taliban chief Mullah Omar were not in Afghanistan. Islamabad rejected suggestions that Omar was in Pakistan. On the same day, Assistant Secretary of State for Arms Control Rademaker reportedly said “it would be a mistake to proceed with this [Iran-Pakistan-India gas] pipeline” as it would generate revenue that Iran would use “for funding its weapons of mass destruction program and for supporting terrorist activities.” Also, three Sunni Muslim activists were found murdered in Karachi in what was believed to be a case of local political violence.

06/15/05 — Addressing the case of gang rape victim Mukhtaran Mai, a State Department spokesman said, “The United States expects Pakistan’s leaders to honor their pledge to protect the basic human rights of their citizens, including freedom to travel.” Islamabad said Mai had been removed from the Exit Control List and was free to travel abroad. A New York Times editorial criticized President Musharraf for his government’s handling of the case, which BBC News later called “a public relations disaster” and a leading Pakistani commentator called “a monumental blunder.” On the same day, a leading Kashmiri separatist, a former Pakistani army chief, and the PPP made separate accusations that Pakistani Information Minister Rashid operated a training camp for Kashmiri separatist militants during the 1980s. New Delhi later informed Islamabad that Rashid would not be allowed to travel across the Kashmiri LOC due to the allegations. Rashid said the move would “set back” the peace process. Also, a senior fugitive Taliban leader appeared on Pakistani television to claim that Osama bin Laden and Taliban chief Mullah Omar were both alive and in good health.

06/14/05 — During a House International Relations Committee hearing on the United States and South Asia, Assistant Secretary of State for South Asia Christina Rocca said that Pakistan is set “on the path of becoming a moderate, prosperous and democratic state,” adding that Islamabad is cooperating with international efforts to dismantle the A.Q. Khan nuclear proliferation network and that the United States expects Pakistan’s 2005 local and 2007 national elections to be free and fair. She also expressed dismay at travel restrictions placed on gang rape victim Mukhtaran Mai. Several Members in attendance spoke against a U.S. policy of selling combat aircraft to South Asian countries, and expressed concerns about the state of democracy in Pakistan and about the nuclear proliferation network of A.Q. Khan. One expert witness warned about Pakistan’s “dysfunctional social order, its dangerous sectarianism and its distorted political system,” saying the country had achieved “sustainable failure.” All three witnesses endorsed resumed U.S. sales of F-16 fighters to Pakistan. On the same day, President Musharraf visited Canberra, where Pakistan and Australia agreed to bolster bilateral counterterrorism efforts.

06/10/05 — A court ordered the release of 12 men imprisoned in connection with the 2002 gang rape of Mukhtaran Mai. Mai later complained that the government was preventing her from moving freely or leaving the country to accept an invitation to visit the United States.
06/09/05 — During a visit to Washington, Foreign Minister Kasuri suggested that Pakistan could claim more successes in combating terrorism than any other country, but he emphasized that military means alone will not end the problem and opined that the “sense of deprivation will have to be tackled.” On the same day, Secretary of State Rice told an interviewer that “Pakistan has to make inroads on democracy.” Also, during a visit to Pakistan, moderate Indian Kashmiri separatist leader Mirwaiz Umer Farooq urged interested parties to “move beyond” UN resolutions that call for a plebiscite in the disputed region.

06/06/05 — Pakistan’s annual federal budget allocated a total of $18.4 billion, including $4.6 billion for public sector development (up 35% over the previous year) and $3.7 billion for defense (up 15% over the previous year). Opposition parties and some analysts called increased defense spending unnecessary and claimed the budget will further impoverish the poor. On the same day, a Pakistan-American and his father were arrested in California on charges of lying to FBI agents about their alleged involvement in terrorist training in Pakistan. Prime Minister Aziz later denied that there were any terrorist training camps in Pakistan.

06/05/05 — President Musharraf visited Doha, where Pakistan and Qatar agreed to expedite initial work on a proposed gas pipeline linking the two countries.

06/03/05 — The U.S. State Department’s annual Trafficking in Persons Report said that “Pakistan does not fully comply with the minimum standards for the elimination of trafficking; however, it is making significant efforts to do so,” and it removed Pakistan from the “Tier 2Watch List” in recognition of progress.

06/02/05 — Leaders of the moderate faction of the Hurriyat Conference of Kashmiri separatist groups began an unprecedented visit to Pakistan. On the same day, talks between Pakistani and Indian officials to resolve a dispute over India’s Kishanganga dam project ended in deadlock.

06/01/05 — Prime Minister Aziz visited Ankara, where Pakistan and Turkey agreed to increase defense trade and cooperation.

05/31/05 — President Musharraf said that captured Al Qaeda suspect Abu Faraj al-Libbi had been remanded to U.S. custody. On the same day, Indian opposition leader and former Deputy PM Lal Advani met with top Pakistani officials in Islamabad where he declared that there was “broad consensus” on the peace process in India.

05/30/05 — Suicide bombers killed themselves and at least two other people, and injured 20 more, in an apparent sectarian attack on a Shiite mosque in Karachi. An enraged crowd of some 1,000 Shias rioted, killing at least six more people. On the same day, India’s prime minister said, “Not enough has been done [by Pakistan] to dismantle the infrastructure of terrorism, which is still intact.” Also, gunmen shot and killed a senior leader of the Jamaat-e-Islami party in Karachi.

05/29/05 — Talks between Pakistani and Indian officials seeking to resolve a territorial dispute over the Sir Creek ended in deadlock. On the same day, suspected militants shot and killed a key tribal ally of the government in South Waziristan.

05/28/05 — President Musharraf told an interviewer that Osama bin Laden is alive and “probably in the [Pakistan-Afghanistan] border belt.”
05/27/05 — A suicide bomber killed 20 people and injured up to 100 more in an apparent sectarian attack on a Muslim shrine in Islamabad. On the same day, talks between Pakistani and Indian officials seeking to resolve a militarized dispute over the Siachen Glacier ended in deadlock.

05/25/05 — Assistant Secretary of State for South Asia Christina Rocca met with top Pakistani officials in Islamabad. On the same day, the International Atomic Energy Agency confirmed it had received centrifuge parts and uranium samples from Pakistan. Also, the director of the U.S. Defense Security Cooperation Agency reportedly said that Pakistan was seeking to purchase 75 new F-16C/D fighters from the United States. Finally, London-based Amnesty International’s annual report was critical of the Islamabad government for numerous alleged human rights violations.

On the same day, the U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom released an annual report which claimed that, “The response of the government of Pakistan to persistent and religiously motivated violence in Pakistan continues to be inadequate.”

05/10/05 — After consulting with the Indian and Pakistani governments, the World Bank named a Swiss engineer to serve as Neutral Expert to address the dispute over a dam India is constructing on the Chenab River in Baghliar, Kashmir. On the same day, the Islamabad government expressed “serious concern” to U.S. officials about allegations that a copy of the Koran had been desecrated at the U.S. facility at Guantanamo Bay. Also, tribal leaders in the southwestern Baluchistan province said that “peace has collapsed” there due to alleged central government malfeasance. Finally, U.S. and Pakistani officials met in Islamabad for three days of negotiation on a Bilateral Investment Treaty.

05/09/05 — A Newsweek magazine report alleging that a copy of the Koran had been desecrated at the U.S. facility at Guantanamo Bay allegedly spurred four days of violent anti-U.S. protests in both Afghanistan and Pakistan, although senior U.S. and Afghan officials later disputed the connection. On the same day, Pakistan’s National Assembly passed a resolution condemning the publication of a “derogatory” cartoon about Pakistan in the Washington Times. Also, police in the southern Sindh province reportedly arrested five members of the Lashkar-e-Jhangvi terrorist group wanted in connection with sectarian attacks that left 15 Shiites dead in 2003. Finally, a senior Pakistani air force officer said that Pakistan and China had agreed to begin co-production of at least 400 new JF-17 “Thunder” fighter aircraft.

05/08/05 — Information provided by captured militant Abu Faraj al-Libbi reportedly led to the arrest of six suspected Al Qaeda members.
